Dear Planning Commission,

I respect those of you wishing to not thrust forward. The smart thing to do is to be patient with things.

It does seem like staff is unnecessarily going out of their way to push this through.

You don't push things through when legal agencies are reaching out to you in a frenzy.

More public input is always better. Your staff is wrong here and staff seems to be less interested in the public's feedback than they should be.

Listen to your gut and don't just move forward because staff tells you to.

Respectfully sent,
Jeremy Taylor
