6.  Regular Items

Discussion Item – Presentation by the Yolo Land Trust on the City’s existing conservation easements
The Commission heard a presentation by the Yolo Land Trust (“YLT”) on the City’s existing conservation easements. The YLT co-owns 16 conservation easements with the City of Davis. These easements protect 2,832 acres of agriculture land within the Davis Planning Area. About 166 of those acres are also protected for Swainson’s Hawk habitat. Jessica Grant, a YLT conservation associate, discussed how the YLT monitors these easements for the City and makes sure the private property owners are complying with the underlying easement documents. Michele Clark, the YLT’s executive director, said the YLT is paid for its services through endowments set up through escrow when the conservation easements are purchased.

Action Item – Approve habitat restoration concept for three acres of City-owned land at the intersection of F Street and Anderson Road Tracie Reynolds, staff to the Commission, discussed a preliminary habitat restoration concept for three acres of City-owned land at the intersection of F Street and Anderson Road. The City Council directed staff to proceed with the habitat restoration project at its October 17 meeting. The concept was developed with the Friends of North Davis Pond. It will include a walking path, native trees and plants (including pollinators), and interpretive panels. Part of the site will be reserved for a future landing for a bike overcrossing. Over the coming weeks, staff intend to (1) upgrade the site’s irrigation system, (2) plant a hedgerow of coyote bush and other native plants along the ridgeline that will help prevent the spread of invasive species throughout the rest of the site, and (3) perform other invasive species control measures. Ms. Reynolds said staff planned to hold a “kick-off” meeting with the Friends of North Davis Pond to answer questions and discuss next steps in project implementation. On a motion by Commissioner Hoshovsky, seconded by Commissioner Bone, the Commission voted 6-0-1-0 to approve the conceptual direction as described by staff at the meeting (Ayes – Aptekar, Bone, Hoshovsky, Huber, Layton, Payne; Noes – None; Absent – Millstein; Abstentions – None).
