Staff mentioned that City land managers were meeting on a quarterly basis to discuss inter-departmental land management issues, including the possibility of managing some of the City’s public works infrastructure for wildlife habitat. Commissioners offered several suggestions for improving the draft outline, including linking it to specific action items mentioned in the Strategic Plan for the City’s Open Space Program. In general, Commissioners were pleased with the document. Staff said the next step would be to prepare an actual draft management plan for the Commission’s review. Mr. Gardner said he would start with Wildhorse Agricultural Buffer. Staff will keep the Commission apprised of progress.
Discussion Item – Receive update on the process for determining the future use of the City’s wetlands and overflow ponds which are no longer needed for wastewater treatment

Staff updated the Commission on the process for determining the future use of the City’s wetlands and overflow ponds which are no longer needed for wastewater treatment. She said the first phase of this process focuses on determining the short- and long-term uses for the reclaimed water that will now be generated from the City’s new wastewater treatment plant. She said uses for the reclaimed water are being looked at as part of the City’s Recycled Water Master Planning effort. Staff will give the Commission a presentation about this effort in April and will be asking the Commission for input into preferred short- and long-term uses for the reclaimed water. This matter is scheduled to go before the City Council by the end of the summer. She said discussions about the future use of the City’s wetlands and overflow ponds won’t start until later this year or early next year.

Discussion Item – Receive update on public accessibility improvements at South Fork Preserve

Staff updated the Commission on upcoming public accessibility improvements at South Fork Preserve, which are being funded with Measure O, the City’s open space parcel tax, development impact fees, and state grant funds from the California Department of Parks and Recreation. The agencies have requested more information. Staff said it hopes to get the permit in time to commence construction this fall.
